VOL. 79 NO. 3 | CANYON, TEXAS | THURSDAY, APRIL 17, 1975 | 12 PAGES | 15 CENTS

The auctioneer blares through his microphone as he seeks bids for real estate and equipment at what was formerly Happy Wheat Growers Feedyard just north of Happy in Randall County. A federal bankruptcy judge called the auction for Tuesday and an Eagle Pass man purchased the feedyard and a Happy elevator for nearly $1 million.

Happy feedyard sells in auction

The 25,000-head capacity feedyard and other property owned by the Happy Wheat Growers in South Randall County, was sold at auction Tuesday to Leon Miller of Eagle Pass for nearly $1 million.

Miller reportedly will put the yard back into use feeding cattle after the facility has been dormant for nearly a year.

Bidding for the feedyard, a grain elevator in Happy, elevators in Arney, Wayside and Ralph Switch and all equipment began at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the feedyard headquarters just northeast of Happy. About 300 farmers, ranchers and stockmen gathered at the lot to view property and to make bids.

Miller bid $100,000 above the equity owned by The Travellers Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn., which held the first lien on the feedyard, elevator and legs at Arney and Ralph Switch. His proposal is subject to approval by the company and the federal bankruptcy referee.

The auction was held about six months after Happy Wheat Growers, owners of the feedyard and related facilities, took voluntary bankruptcy in federal bankruptcy court. The feedyard was closed down on May 1, 1974 after area banks recalled outstanding notes.

Travellers Insurance had a lien for $840,000 on the feedyard and elevator facilities and First National Bank of Canyon had a lien for the bulk of the equipment and the leg at Arney.

Miller's bids means he will pay the $840,000 owed Travellers, plus the additional $100,000, $41,400 for the two legs at Ralph Switch and Arney, and $13,000 in back taxes on the properties.

The auction was called for Tuesday by the trustee in bankruptcy.

Miller was the only serious bidder for the entire operation and related properties.

First meeting for creditors in the bankruptcy of the Wheat Growers was held last October and the major creditors were assigned by the federal bankruptcy referee to try to sell the property within 90 days, according to First National Bank Attorney Elton E. Cox of Canyon.

Cox said the creditors were unable to find a buyer and the referee directed the auction.

He said replacement value of the feedlot is between $2 million and $3 million.

Possible $5 million bond issue for new schools eyed by board

Canyon school board members studied the future financial impact of a possible $5 million bond issue for construction of two new schools during a Tuesday night meeting.

Supt. Jerry Jacobs, who spent more than an hour outlining the current financial problems of the school district and the possible problems with eventual passage of new school financing legislation, told board members early estimates indicate a $5 million price tag is realistic for construction of a new high school and a new elementary school.

With such a bond issue, he said, the bonded indebtedness of the school district could be increased to around the $11 million mark. Current bonded indebtedness totals $2.9 million.

Service of the bonded indebtedness could cost the school district about $600,000 annually through 1995, his figures indicate.

Board members reviewed the bond figures, but generally agreed there is no point in postponing indefinitely the construction of the new schools. For the past several meetings, Jacobs has outlined the overcrowded conditions of the current schools, and has outlined short-term measures for somewhat alleviating the conditions.

"What is there to be gained by prolonging a bond issue?" Board Chairman Tom Keeling asked.

"Nothing really," Jacobs responded. "The only thing is some knowledge of our financial picture if and when the legislature gets through with the financial bill. It gives us the chance to take a look at some hard figures and then proceed."

"As far as stepping up the pace, there's nothing wrong with having some plans completed and some estimates," Keeling said.

"As far as that's concerned, we probably should have had a bond issue yesterday," Jacobs said.

Texas legislators are currently pounding out legislation which could alter the funding available to the local school district from state sources.

Earlier in the meeting, Jacobs outlined the financial aspects of five bills now pending in the House and Senate. He reiterated his belief that a bill proposed for adoption by Gov. Dolph Briscoe would be the worst financially for the Canyon district.

And, even earlier in the evening, Jacobs told board members they may be pushing the limit of their mandatory tax rate next year when they are again forced to raise more operating capital for the school district's operations.

New requirements by the state have forced the district to come up with an additional $53,000, and that figure does not include an inflation factor.

Jacobs pointed out to board members that the CISD budget has risen from $1.4 million in 1967-68 to $3.1 million in 1974-75. The tax rate has risen from $1.38 to $1.85 during that period also.

Keeling noted that, even though current schools are crowded, it would be at least two years before new schools could be in operation. Board members have tentatively said they will build the new schools on a tract of land on Hollywood Road in the north part of the district.

Board Member Ed Wieck proposed that there might be alternatives in the case overcrowding continues unabated during that two-year period.

He suggested the district might consider going to a four quarter

Funeral home to halt ambulances

Schooler-Gordon Funeral Directors of Canyon has given three local governmental units a month to work out an equitable arrangement for ambulance service with a private firm before it halts its own ambulance service to the city and county.

County Judge Woody Pond read in commissioners court Monday a letter from Billy J. Hunter, local manager of the funeral home, which stated that ambulance service will be terminated by the funeral home as of May 15.

Hunter explains in his letter that a month should be sufficient time for the City of Canyon, Randall County and the South Randall County Hospital District to work out an agreement with Richard Bertrand, local ambulance operator, for future service.

County commissioners took the first step toward such a solution Monday during their regular meeting when they approved a proposal by Bertrand for future ambulance service.

"Nobody wants to be in the ambulance business," Commissioner Paul Lindsey said of the general feeling of city and county commissioners and hospital board members. "I entertain that we go on record as going along with this proposal for a year provided the other two entities agree to go along with it. It's better than the county getting into the ambulance business."

Bertrand has proposed that he purchase Schooler-Gordon ambulance equipment and vehicle and operate an ambulance service here as a private enterprise with an $800 per month subsidy from each of the three governmental units. Neither the city nor hospital board has yet acted on the proposal.

Bertrand told commissioners

Graham disappointed by weather permit decision

A disappointed Walter Graham returned to Canyon Tuesday night after the Texas Water Development Board had voted earlier in the day to approve a permit for weather modification activities sought by a Dimmitt cloud-seeding firm.

Graham, leading spokesman for a group of South Randall County farmers and ranchers opposing weather modification activities in surrounding counties said his efforts to oppose issuance of permits to South Plains cloud-seeding firms has ended.

A long-time school board member and well-known cattle raiser, Graham said he lost the battle Tuesday morning with the weather modification firm in Castro County when the water development board approved a permit allowing the firm to seed clouds in the area.

Graham and other area farmers had complained that cloud-seeding activities carried on by firms out of Dimmitt and Hale County were stifling rainfall in Randall County.

The rancher had carried resolutions opposing weather modification activities from Randall County commissioners, Deaf Smith County commissioners, Briscoe County Commissioners and Swisher County commissioners with him to Austin for the development board.

But, he indicated neither his arguments nor the resolutions had any impact on the members of the board, who granted a permit to Atmospherics, Inc., operating weather modification activities for Better Weather, Inc., of Dimmitt.

The cloud-seeding efforts are scheduled to go into effect April 24.

The News was unable to learn this week whether the Better Weather firm was able to obtain financial backing for the effort. A report in the Castro County News, Dimmitt's newspaper, had reported last week that the organization was about $160,000

House bill could impact on church schools here

The Texas Legislature is now considering legislation, aimed at preventing the abuse of children in private or parochial schools in the state, but which could have an adverse impact on local churches in their Sunday school programs, vacation church schools, and their kindergartens, one local pastor believes.

The Rev. Calvin Rashall, pastor of the First United Pentecostal Church here, said this week requirements of the legislation, which is House Bill 1828 or Senate bill 834, could make Sunday schools, vacation church schools and church-supported kindergartens almost impossible.

State Rep. Bob Simpson says it is not likely the measure will pass Senate and House muster to become state law. But, he says, there are four other bills with similar language which could pass.

Simpson said the bill and the others like it — is aimed particularly at reducing the kind of child abuse in church-supported child care facilities which has been reported in downstate news media.

Some of the bills, he says, exempt religious supported child care facilities from the requirements of the laws.

Rashall said if House Bill 1828 passes, child care facilities which would come under direct state control would include church Sunday schools, kindergartens and vacation church schools.

He said the legislation takes the control and responsibility for church school programs from the hands of local churches and posits it with the Texas Department of Welfare and the Texas Education Agency.

The bill defines a child care facility as any facility which provides care, education, treatment, custody or supervision of children under 18, but excludes churches "while parents or persons legally responsible for the children are on the premises."

As the act reads, if a church school provides facilities for supervision of children, but the children's parents are not present on the premises, the church school must comply with regulations from the department of welfare and the education agency.

Penalties for non-compliance are also included.

Rashall said the bill would impact on his Sunday School operation since in many cases parents of children sent to Sunday School do not actually attend church themselves.

He said the bill would likewise impact on kindergartens — such as those run here by the First Baptist Church and the First United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Rosalind Johnson, superintendent of the day kindergarten of First Baptist Church, said she is not familiar with the proposed legislation. She said her kindergarten, under current Texas law, would be required to be licensed if it ran for more than three hours each day.

Proposed HB 1828 would eliminate the time requirement.

The Rev. Bill Kent, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, said he, too, is unaware of the proposed legislation.

The bill has been reported favorably from a Senate committee and has gone to the full Senate for approval. It is still pending in the House Health and Welfare committee.

Constitution helps Co. treasurer says

County Treasurer Bob McClendon, whose campaign platform called for abolition of his own office and who travelled to Austin earlier this year to introduce legislation to do just that, said this week he'll sit tight on his campaign promise until after the November vote on a new Texas Constitution.

McClendon reviewed the new Constitution as passed recently by Texas House and Senate and said provisions in that document would allow for the abolition of his office without the need for legislation. Texas Senators are to take one more vote on the proposed document before it is placed before the voters in special balloting next fall.

"This is a great step forward in providing a method whereby some of the waste in county government can be eliminated," McClendon said of the revised constitution. "This handles it (the abolition of his office). The next step is for this to pass and then we're on the road. There's nothing additional that I can do until this thing is acted on."

McClendon had asked State Rep. Bob Simpson of Amarillo to introduce an amendment to the current Texas Constitution in the Legislature this session calling for a vote by the people of Texas on the abolition of his office in Randall County. Simpson said he would introduce, but would not support, the legislation.

The constitution as revised by delegates to the Texas Constitutional Convention last spring and summer — a document which failed to pass delegate approval — has been passed by both House and Senate for submission to the voters of the state on Nov. 15. Amendments added to the document by the House must be approved by the Senate before the vote can be taken.

The document, in the Local Government Article, establishes that the qualified voters of each county shall elect a sheriff, county judge, commissioners, treasurer, tax assessor-collector, and county clerk.

One section of the article provides that, with passage of enabling legislation, the qualified voters of any county by a majority vote may create additional offices, eliminate offices or combine the duties and functions of offices.

However, the article states, if the county treasurer is voted for combination with another office, the official who heads up the of-

Grammy winner Bud Townsend will be honored here Tuesday

Tuesday will be Charles Townsend Day in Canyon.

Mayor Manly Bryan signed a proclamation early this week proclaiming the special tribute to the West Texas State University professor who recently won a Grammy Award.

Highlight of Townsend Day activities will be a reception from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Tuesday in the WTSU activities center ballroom, cosponsored by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce and the university.

University students, faculty and administrators as well as Canyon residents are invited to the reception, where Townsend's Grammy will be on public display for the first time.

Townsend won the Grammy Award, the highest honor to be accorded those in the recording industry, for a multi-page booklet he authored for distribution with the United Artists release "Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys: For The Last Time."

The album notes, which tell the life story of Wills, famous Western Swing musician and band leader, were just part of a voluminous collection of information Townsend has gathered about Wills in writing a biography of the artist.

The professor's book is to be published next fall by the University of Illinois press.

Townsend is associate professor of history at the university, and has authored several other papers and articles on Wills' contributions to music.

John Wooden, former coach of the national basketball champion UCLA Bruins, spoke on the "Pyramid of Success" Tuesday evening to approximately 350 persons in WTSU's Activities Center. Interlaced with wit and humor, the basketball great laid guidelines for the attainment of success.

WT president cites 'significance' goals

West Texas State University must intensify its appeal to the so-called "non-traditional" students in the Panhandle area, must strive to maintain relevancy in a changing world and must "establish beyond question that we really do care about our students," Dr. Lloyd I. Watkins, university president, told faculty members Monday.

In his second major address the assembled faculty for the year, Watkins outlined general comments which permeated reports he asked of the university's deans in a similar speech last fall.

In that speech, Watkins called for establishment of WTSU as a university of national significance, and the results of his call were revealed in general during the Monday presentation to about 250 faculty members.

"We must intensify our appeal to what are still called the "non-traditional" students, senior citizens, the economically disadvantaged, housewives, the currently employed," Watkins said. "Increased counseling for these students or potential students is needed and will be

COVERING FUMBLES

The market place hails him as a great educator — yet he has never read a book above the intellectual level of a trade manual.

FROM THE CANYON RIM

I used to think of contemporary music as something unintelligible but with a 16 year old music addict in the house, I'm beginning to appreciate it too.

I'm getting especially fond of John Denver. Tim and I used to fight a lot about his Denver tape. Anytime we traveled together I'd be listening to his "I'm leaving" or his "Denver, Colorado High."

We'd wrestle over which would go into the car stereo, Denver or Tschiakovsky. I lost enough that I developed a taste for Denver.

Now I find myself putting on the Denver tape even when I'm riding alone.

I even find myself humming "I'm leaving on a jet plane, don't know when I'll be back again."

Two exciting things are unfolding at Canyon High School. One is a project by Mary Jane Reeves and Jane Westberry to take a group of Panhandle high school youngsters on a tour of Europe this summer.

It's a 28-day jaunt and the group will visit Madrid, Rome, Florence, Venice, Salsburg, Paris London. Cost is just a little over $1,000.

Another notable project is being pushed by Sofia Duman, a student teacher. She has several students tracing their family histories.

You'd be surprised how hard it is to do. Most family histories fade into antiquity with grandparents. Rarely can a person on the street even call the name of his great grandfather.

Beyond that few people have the foggiest of where their ancestry on either side of the family originated and few are absolutely certain of their nationality.

Mrs. Duman reports that one student found a very famous (notorious) personage in his background, one William Bonney, a native of Brooklyn better known in western lore as Billy the Kid.

I went to the Panhandle Press Convention last week and ran into Jim Roberts from Andrews.

Jim is a very picturesque writer. He has the advantage of looking like a publisher and is one of the most influential small town newspapermen in newspaper and political circles in the state.

Jim was present at that famous confrontation between Ted Dealy of the Dallas Morning News and John F. Kennedy at a Presidential breakfast in Washington.

In a column recently Roberts vented his ire against a public official by saying: "He's a lot like a cockroach. It's not so much what he eats or carries off that matters but what he falls in and messes up."

I wish I'd said that Jim.

"TEXAS" Opening For Tenth Season

The tenth season of the outdoor musical drama "TEXAS" will begin June 18, 1975 with those who gave support in the early days of the project to be specially honored at the opening night performance.

Canyon people who helped to bring Paul Green to the Texas Panhandle for his first visit and who met together on May 7, 1961 to organize the project with the members of the development board throughout the area present as the first Board of Directors was named.

When the theatre in Palo Duro was proposed to house a musical drama of the Panhandle's history — it seemed like a fantasy and there was a misprint in a large heading of one of the early brochures which read: "This is an imaginary project" and thus it seemed to many area folks.

There had been no similar undertakings within thousands of miles and most people of the Panhandle had never even heard of such an idea. However, there were enough interested people who decided to help make the theatre possible, which ultimately resulted in the number one outdoor attraction for summer entertainment for many seasons.

These tireless early backers for the outdoor drama "TEXAS" will be recognized in special ceremonies opening night.

"Openings" will be the theme for the third annual Art Competition held in conjunction with the opening of "TEXAS." The competition will be held in conjunction with the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum as in past years and the winning canvases will be displayed during the "TEXAS" opening show and then for several weeks at the museum.

Membership in the Foundation is open and all interested people are urged to join. Memberships range from $5 a year to $100. For each $5 invested, a member will receive a Souvenir Program, a ticket to opening night performance and to one other night during the season in June, July or Wednesday in August.

Even when holding memberships, each person must make a reservation for the night he proposes to attend. It is well to do this in advance.

Contributions for new chairs are still coming in at $9 a chair. This special help in addition to memberships is much appreciated.

For membership information or for ticket reservations, write to "TEXAS," Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015 or call 806-655-2182.

"Meaning To Life" Is Goal Of Senior Citizens

"Canyon Senior Citizens are designed to fill a need for the older citizens of this area, many of whom have no one else," noted E. R. Dutch Cleavinger, chairman of the group.

"The senior citizens is open to all persons 55 years and older and serves as a recreational and friendly associational gathering for many of these folks who oftentimes have no one else in their families.

"As a senior citizen anyone can participate and besides the friendly championship it oftentimes gives a real meaning to life for these older individuals," he concluded.

The Senior Citizens meet weekly on Thursday evenings at Canyon Community Center and are in the process of raising $22,500 to purchase the former First Christian Church building now owned by University Church of Christ congregation.

At last Thursday's business session, the Senior Citizens began a fund-raising project to acquire the building with a starting count of $6,400 and with additional donations this week the fund has now accumulated to almost $8,000, according to Cleavinger.

"We are asking that any and all donations be made through our executive board," stated Cleavinger listing as board members the following individuals: Marie Bonifield, Susie Conatser, Flossie Johnston, Iris Gazzaway, Martha Goodman, Dean Angel, Kitty Metcalf, Tom Beard, Tom Black, W. E. Wendy Miller, Albert Byars, Woody Pond and Clarence Beckman.

The executive board session for the Senior Citizens will be held again this evening, Thursday, as further plans on the project are discussed at 6 p.m. The board meeting will be followed with the weekly potluck supper at 7 p.m. in the Canyon Community Center. Any local resident (55 or older) may join the senior citizens at any weekly meeting.

Last Seminar Slated

A look at modern science will be featured at the last Saturday seminar for high school students at West Texas State University Saturday.

In a dual presentation, Dr. Vaughn Nelson, WTSU Physics Department head, will speak on "Today's Science and Future Technology's Control of Man" and Dr. John Grillo, Computer Information Systems assistant professor, will talk on "Computers, Computer Science and Information: How to have a Blast in Binary."

The 10 a.m. sessions in Room 102 of the WTSU Science Center are open to all academically-talented high school juniors and seniors. The talks will be followed by a question-and-answer period to end at noon.

"Most people don't realize how what scientists are doing today will affect them tomorrow," Nelson said. "The research ongoing today is leading to the control of man through chemical means, through genetic engineering and through electricity."

Grillo hopes "to bring the student up-to-date as to where the technology of the computer is, how it relates to society and what affect one has on tthe other.

"There is no way of polling the computer out now," he said.

Grillo will also demonstrate some computer programs and uses on a remote terminal and television monitors set up in the room.

Defensive Driving Course Is Offered

A defensive driving course is set for April 21-22 at Canyon's Community Center and will be open to all local residents.

The course will be instructed by Tony Guess, safety education officer of the Texas Highway Patrol in Amarillo, and local drivers desiring to participate may join at 6 p.m. on the opening day of the course, April 21.

Course material is taken from workbooks and those desiring certification through the program will have a nominal fee of $1.75 to cover the workbook and certification.

The two evening course will be held from 6-10 p.m. both evenings and any interested person may participate.

Dr. James Underwood, professor of geology at West Texas State University, will serve as co-leader for the biannual field conference this week in the Eagle Mountains, southwest of Van Horn, Texas. Dr. Underwood will lead members of the Permian Basin Section of the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists with Dr. Donald F. Reaser, former WTSU geology professor.

Kent Revamps Team

Coach David Kent has reshuffled the deck, hoping to deal his young West Texas State tennis team a new winning streak.

The Buffs, with an 18-6 record going into this weekends WTSU Team Matches on the Buffalo Courts, dropped three of four matches in Oklahoma last week, and in the process failed to successfully defend their Oklahoma City University Invitational tournament win of 1974.

The only win of the trip was a 7-2 decision over Kansas in the opening round of the tournament. That was followed, however, but an 8-1 loss to Oklahoma State in the semifinals. In the third place match, Oklahoma duplicated a 6-3 win over the Buffs the Sooners had won Wednesday.

This week, Kent will send out a lineup of four sophomores and two freshmen in an effort to reverse the Oklahoma setbacks. Sophomores Brett Hall and Steve Johnson will retain their top two singles positions, but it will be a new look down the line.

Todd Reed and Jay Goss, who Kent reversed in the Saturday match with Oklahoma, will move back to the number three and four slots, but sophomore Dana Caledonia will be inserted in the number five position.

Freshman Bobby Kleinecke, who played at number five against Oklahoma, will be back at number six this week.

In doubles, Johnson and Reed will continue at number one, but Kent wants improvement of their 7-5 record. Kleinecke will team with Hall at number two, and Caledonia will pair with Goss at number three.

In Friday afternoon's opening round of the team matches, the Buffaloes will meet Hardin-Simmons, while New Mexico State plays Midland College.

Saturday morning, WT plays NMSU and Hardin-Simmons meets Midland. Saturday afternoon, the Buffs meet Midland, and NMSU plays HSU.

Hall and Johnson continue to be the Buffs' steadiest players. "They are doing a real fine job," Kent said of the two sophomores. "We're not hurting there; we're hurting down the line.

"They are as good as players I've ever had at one and two."

Hall goes into the last home appearance this year with a 20-4 record, while Johnson is 17-7. Down the line, Reed is 17-7, Goss 18-6, Caledonia 4-0, Kleinecke 12-6, and Wayne Marsh 16-4.

In doubles, Johnson and Reed are 7-5, Goss and Marsh are 10-4, and Caledonia and Hall are 8-2.

Buffs Host Track Meet

Bob Kitchens is starting to rest easier about his West Texas State University Track team.

A second place finish in a quadrangular meet at Texas Tech last Saturday, and the prospects for the championship in the WTSU Invitational Saturday at Buffalo Stadium.

"Yes, I was pleased we weren't third, and no, I wasn't pleased with some of the performances," Kitchens about the quad with Baylor, New Mexico State and Tech.

The Buffs nipped the Raiders for second place as Baylor won easily with 88½ points. WT scored 48 and Tech had 39½.

George Fuller, a senior from Hereford, came through with a clutch win in the triple jump to ice the Buff finish. His personal best of 45-5¼ earned him the WT nomination for the Missouri Valley Conference's spring athlete of the week.

"I thought he did a tremendous job because he hadn't really jumped that far since he was a freshman," Kitchens noted. "He really got the points for us when we needed them."

WT had three other winners in the meet held on a cold, rainy day in Lubbock. Alvis Wright won the 100-yard dash in 9.5, Marvin Self won the shot put with a heave of 51-9, and Tommy Humphries won the pole vault with a vault of 13-6.

Saturday's meet will be the only home appearance for the Buffs this spring. Teams from Texas Tech, Eastern New Mexico, Wayland Baptist, and Lubbock Christian are entered. McMurry College had been scheduled to compete, but the Indians withdrew early in the week.

At the same time, WTSU will host the District 1-AAA boys' meet involving Canyon High, Perryton, Dumas, Muleshoe, and Levelland.

High school preliminaries and field events will be staged Saturday morning. The college field events get the afternoon session started at 1:30 with the running events to start at 2 p.m.

The pole vault could be the premier event of the day. Humphries has a best this spring of 15-6, while LCC's Paul Perryman has gone 16-0 and WBC's Hoyt Wauhob has also cleared 15-6. Humphries WTSU teammate, Mike Walker, has a career best of 15-6.

In addition, WBC has a top high hurdler in Ray Harvey (13.9 best) and a fine intermediate hurdler in Larry English (54.0). Wayland's Ron Melnichuk could be favored in the mile (4:17) and the three-mile (14:20). He'll have to beat Eastern's Phillip Ndoo in both events.

West Texas should be strongest again in the sprints where Alvis and Karl Wright hold forth, in the 880 where Joseph Tiony will compete, and in the shot put with Charlie Haddad and Self.

Loneliness A Divorcee's Life

(Editor's Note: The following is the first in a series of articles which will be devoted to the subject of divorce. The first two articles in the series will deal with the more personal aspects of divorce, a phenomenon which is becoming more common in Canyon. Other articles in the series will probe the reasons for divorce-.

A religious sect in India once burned on the funeral pyre, a woman husbandless because of death, a rite some women believe would be less painful than ostracism and gossip often inflicted upon them when they find themselves husbandless because of divorce.

Two Canyon divorcees this week volunteered to talk about the trauma of divorce which often lingers for years.

Alice and Peggy are in their early thirties and are close friends. Both have two children and both have been divorced for about three years.

Alice said she and her husband drifted apart after withstanding the pressures of poverty while she was putting him through school.

Alice worked while her young man studied and she herself yearned to go back to school. The world turned and he got his degree and then she sought his help in furthering her own education.

"I guess we drifted apart," she declared without bitterness. "I wish he would see the children more. They miss him and he only lives in Dallas. But he's married again and has more problems."

Peggy married at 18 to a boy she had known all her life. She had lived within the protective circle of a fairly prominent family in the small town in which she grew up.

She learned two babies later that the boy of her high school dreams, although brilliant, was an alcoholic with little ambition.

She loved him and clung to the hope that things might work out. She took marriage counseling but he refused on grounds that there was absoultely nothing wrong with him.

It became too much and she went to divorce court. The husband disappeared.

"We haven't seen or heard from him in two years," she related. "I guess the children miss him. We just don't talk about him."

What shocked both women most was the treatment they have received at the hands of society — mostly people who were supposed to be friends.

Peggy is a beautiful girl — usually bouncy and happy. But almost imprecitibly the smooth, flawless features of her face has hardened about the lips.

She doesn't smile anymore.

She learned recently that some of the women to whom she had felt very close had conspired against her being invited again to the small private dances that had delighted her heart.

"They think I'm a menace," she said. "I guess they think I want to steal their husbands. If any couple has trouble Alice and I get blamed for it."

Alice suffered but not as much as Peggy. "I found that many people whom I thought were my friends were not and some people I had not particularly considered friends before would do almost anything for me.

"I began to realize there are a lot of good people.

Both women agreed that one of the most trying parts of living alone is just seeing that the kids get a square deal.

Peggy says she spends a great deal of time hauling her boys from place to place.

Both women date and they agree that they have run into some very nice guys and some clods.

Alice said one fellow in the crudest manner possible told her he expected to be repaid for his investment in a steak dinner for her.

They both had something to say about the cheapskate who didn't bother to pay the baby sitter after a date.

Then there are the fellows who call on the telephone with proposals for dates, trips and other forms of entertainment and just can't believe the refusal they get.

"You might be surprised at some of the men who do this," Alice declared.

Peggy says there is much around the house to be done that needs a man for the doing. "It's things like fixing doors, repairing the plumbing and a lot of other things I can't do or afford to hire done," she went on.

Alice and Peggy depend on each other a lot but even to the unpracticed eye it is evident that Alice is the more at home in her new world.

She's only a year away from a well-paying professional career among people who will be able to stimulate her much higher than average intelligence.

With Peggy it's a different story, she's a born housewife and admits it. She never worked before her divorce and would much rather be making a home for someone who would love and protect her and her children.

Both women say they want to get married again. They believe it is possible to love and be loved.

"I'm looking," said Peggy. "I have been so lonely."

Peggy and Alice agreed that "finding themselves" was one of the first things they had to do after divorce. They had been identified all their lives as someone's wife, daughter, mother or employee.

Of all the trauma they have undergone, no memory is stamped as indelibly in their brains as the cruelty of some and the extreme kindness of others during their tribulations.

"We lost someone dear to us even though it was in divorce rather than through death," Peggy declared. "We are more like widows than divorcees.

"If our husbands had died, everyone would have comforted us instead of persecuting us," she went on. "Since at least a third of the people who read this have been or will be divorced, I'd like to point out that divorce is hell."

ONSTAGE AT THE Branding Iron Theatre of the Fine Arts Building, West Texas State University, this week is the spring musical production "Man of La Mancha" which features Dennis Sullivan and Shelly Hamrick in supporting roles. # Cancer Drive Tops Goal

"We have topped our goal this year by a good margin," reports Marilyn Dees, residential campaign chairman for the Randall County chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Thus far the residential cancer campaign county has amounted to $2,133 in donations which tops the residential goal which had been set at $1,500 before the drive began April 7. The count also tops last year's cancer campaign which amounted to $1,468 on the residential canvas.

A number of individual volunteers and active alumnae members of Chi Omega sorority were thanked by the residential campaign chairman, Mrs. Dees. Residents may continue to mail in contributions to the campaign at P.O. Box 8, Canyon, Texas, 79015.

Presently the drive for funding to "possibly wipe out cancer as a dread disease through support of research" is continuing according to John Childs. The campus drive is presently being concluded this week.

Food And Population Symposium Saturday Features AID Official

A Food-Population Symposium to explore the complex problems surrounding the current starvation of perhaps more than one-half the world's population will be held at West Texas State University Saturday.

The symposium will feature a keynote address by Dr. Edgar Owens, director of Rural Development for the Agency for International Development, US Department of State.

The sessions will open at 1 p.m. in the WTSU activities center with a documentary film, "3900 Million and One," which "examines the world population problem at its most human and personal level." The film will also be presented a second time at 2 p.m.

At 2 p.m., four group discussions will be held on "Population Growth and the Future," "Health Aspects of the Food-Population Crisis," "The Role of Agriculture" and "Judeo-Christian Response to the Crisis."

Owens' speech will follow at 4 p.m. after a break. He will discuss the problems, policies and possible solutions related to the food-population crisis.

Owens has studied at Syracuse University and the London School of Economics, and was a Federal Executive Fellow at Brooking Institution. The author of "Development Reconsidered," he has been with AID since 1960, and has had overseas experience in Pakistan, Bangladesh, Vietnam and Thailand.

For more information, contact Dr. Robert Sawvell, WTSU Geography Department head and symposium director.

WT Students Publish Articles On Research

Four international chemical journals have recently published articles by two West Texas State University undergraduate students — one a senior and the other a sophomore.

Matthew V. Hanson, a sophomore chemistry major from Amarillo, and Charles B. Smith, a senior chemistry major from Canyon, conducted chemical research which has led to a major break-through in an understanding of out-of-plane bonding in metal cluster complexes, according to their supervisor, Dr. Gene Carlisle.

Carlisle, who came up with the idea behind the research project, said for years scientists have been searching for an understanding of electron coupling in such metal-containing substances.

The results of Hanson's and Smith's research were published in the Journal of Molecular Structure, the Inorganic Chemistry, the Journal of Inorganic and Nuclear Chemistry, and Inorganic and Nuclear Chemistry Letters.

"The results have generated great interest in the area of transition metal chemistry," Carlisle said. "Forty-six letters requesting additional information on these metal complexes have been received from research institutions throughout the world."

The WTSU associate chemistry professor said it is "quite unusual" for sophomore and senior students to be performing research of such significance.

Hanson and Smith work under Carlisle, who has a Robert A. Welch Foundation research grant. Each student has a $1500 per year academic scholarship under the grant program.

Nurse Garage Sale Saturday To Aid City Hospital

The West Texas State University Nursing Students Association plans a fund-raising garage sale Saturday at the Canyon Bull Barn from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The proceeds will go to the new Palo Duro Hospital, said Jewell Mott, association secretary.

Miss Mott said donations are still needed, especially such items as old furniture, toys, bicycles.

Persons with items to donate, she said, can have them picked up by calling 655-2386, 655-3345 or 655-7824.

Justice of the Peace W.A. (Bill) Wilson and Meade Michael will serve as auctioneers.

fice must be elected by the people. In such case, county commissioners will have the authority to appoint the officer who will head up the combined office.

"The only real thing I see that's objectionable," McClendon said, "is that in the event I'm successful in getting this office abolished, then the county commission gets to designate the officer to handle the duties rather than the voters."

Talent Show Winners Selected On Saturday

Talented youth performed at Canyon High School auditorium Saturday evening, April 12, with about 300 spectators enjoying the performances which were sponsored by the Heritage Woman's Club.

First prize honors were given in three judging classifications with the top prize winner in each division receiving a $50 savings bond from either West Texas State Bank or First National Bank of Canyon or a $50 savings account at the Panhandle Savings and Loan office in Canyon.

Greg Coronado of Gene Howe Elementary School capped the first place win for the first through third grade section of the contest with a solo performance on drums.

In the fourth through sixth grade section, Shavawn Evans captured first place honors with a piano selection "Sonatina." She represented Rex Reeves Elementary School.

First place in the junior high section was won by Kathy Zello with a jazz dance to the tune of "Bad, Bad Leroy Brown."

Thirty-four groups or individual performers were involved in the Kid Power Talent Show Saturday evening with John Brandon serving as master of ceremonies and Debbie LeGrande (Miss WT) performing a medley of musical selections for additional entertainment.

Talent judges were Elsa Porter, assistant professor of music at West Texas State University; Marjorie Wilson, director of music for Sunrise Elementary School of Amarillo; and Neva Chowning, drama instructor of Canyon High School.

Second place honors in the talent show went to a ballet dance group from Rex Reeves Elementary School for "The Doll Dance" in the youngest section of the show and to the Tinikling group from Gene Howe Elementary School in the grade 4-6 section of the show.

A piano and oboe presentation of "Fur Elise" and "Elegy" by Kim Landrum took the second place honors in the junior high section of the talent show. The second place winners received $10 prize awards which were furnished by Imperial Savings and Loan Association.

"Let Me Be There" was presented vocally by Tad Looney and Danny Byrd of Rex Reeves Elementary School to earn the third place prize in the 1-3 grade division.

A series of impersonations were presented in the 4-6 grade section to win the third place prize for Scott Frank and in the junior high section the third place award went to Kim Storlie with a vocal arrangement of "I Don't Know How To Love Him." All third place prizes were $5 and had been presented by Gibson's, Imperial Chevrolet and Consumer's Fuel Association.

Receiving honorable mention in the talent show divisions were a vocal group consisting of John Hicks, Jay Edwards and Gilbert Hollis of Gene Howe Elementary School with "You're a Grand Old Flag" in the first through third grade section. A baton performance to the tune of "Mountain Dew" won the fourth through sixth grade section's honorable mention for Tara Tankersley. Jan Park received honorable mention in the junior high contest division with a modern dance "Color My Lord."

Mrs. Jimmy Marrs, president of the Heritage Woman's Club, concluded the program with the presentation of talent show awards. The D. Crow painting "Nature's Flower Garden" was presented in the early phase of the program to the winning bidder, Levi Cole.

Funds raised through both the talent show and the sealed-bid auction for the painting will be used by the club toward the purchase of a portable heart defibrillator to be presented to Palo Duro Hospital in Canyon.

Ambulance. . .

he believes he can operate a fully equipped and competent ambulance service for the city and county, and that he can run the service on a profitable basis only with the $800 per month subsidies.

He said he plans to provide two ambulances — one a large ambulance with four-wheel drive — manned by two men for each run.

The ambulances, he said, would be over-equipped under state regulations.

Manpower for the operation, Bertrand said, would come primarily from already trained ambulance operators who are in college here. Replacements would be trained by Bertrand, who is a licensed instructor.

Canyon City commissioners are expected to act on the proposal during their next meeting, which is scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday. The city is already paying $800 per month to subsidize the Schooler-Gordon operation.

Randall County had been paying about $350 per month subsidy to the funeral home and the hospital district has not been participating in the subsidy program.

In other business Monday, commissioners heard a report from Carroll Wilson, editor of The Canyon News, on a recent study he has completed concerning the possible consolidation of Randall and Potter counties into one governmental unit.

Wilson outlined the findings of his masters thesis, which he is completing as a part of the requirements for a masters degree at West Texas State University. He outlined the legal, historical, academic, and other considerations in consolidation and said it would probably not be a feasible solution for the governments involved.

Commissioners opened bids for purchase of two dump trucks, but postponed the awarding of a contract until their next meeting.

Bids were submitted by Western International of Amarillo, Hudiburg-Jones of Amarillo, Plains Chevrolet of Amarillo, Hedgecoke Motor Co. of Amarillo, Stevenson Motor Co. of Canyon, Jess Ford Col of Canyon and Imperial Chevrolet of Canyon.

Apparent low bidder is Western International with a bid of $17,375 for the two trucks with trade-in and $18,225 for the trucks without trade-in.

Commissioners approved the purchase of eight walkie-talkie type radios for the sheriff's department. The cost of the purchase will be pro-rated with the county paying for 25 per cent of the cost and the federal government paying for 75 per cent of the cost.

Mrs. Audrey Bruse, local tax assessor-collector, outlined a bill now pending before the Texas Legislature meeting in Austin, which she said had many faults.

House Bill 1463, a piece of legislation which would make the county tax collector the central assessing officer for all governmental units within the county, would give too much power to the state, Mrs. Bruse told commissioners.

Commissioners called a special constitutional amendment election for April 22 at various precincts in the county. Two issues will be on the ballot, the passage of which could alter the Texas Constitution.

The two measures Texas voters will be asked to consider include pay raises for legislators and increase in retirement benefits for city, county, state and teaching employees in the state.

Cites. . .

Part of that effort at taking the university to the students of the Panhandle must include, he said, finding a permanent home in Amarillo for a WTSU center.

"It is my hope that perhaps it will be possible for us to secure the use of the Bivins Library when the new Amarillo Public Library is completed," he said. Currently, the university offers courses for Amarillo residents at Amarillo College and in facilities provided by the Amarillo school system.

"As we reach out, bringing education to those who need and desire it, we must never forget that externalizing can never be an excuse for a diminution in quality," Watkins said. "Delivery systems which are non-traditional need not and must not be inferior systems. We must protect the integrity of this university."

A second major comment made through the reports Watkins asked from the deans was that the university must strive for "relevance in a changing world.

"This does not, it seems to me, suggest that we ignore traditional and ever-needed areas of study," he said. "It does mean, I submit, that we need to devise sensitive methods of keeping in touch with area and national needs and trends."

As demands of the region and nation change in career preparations, so must some of the university's offerings change, he said.

"Perhaps this will entail an increasing utilization of interdisciplinary approaches, cutting across traditional departmental, school and college lines," he said. "If we have not this flexibility, we cannot adapt to change."

Watkins said the administration will make every effort to keep together the current faculty, but he said the faculty members must be willing to continue advancement in their own disciplinces. Some faculty members, he said, may have to become masters of new areas of study.

Another frequently mentioned comment in the significance reports indicated WTSU needs to establish beyond question that we really do care about our students," Watkins said.

Continued emphasis on research must also be a priority, he said, and then announced the 14 faculty members who have been selected to receive $5000 in Faculty Venture Funds from private sources.

Other thrusts of significance reports which the university administration and faculty must pursue include increasing the relationship between the academic and student affairs at the university; continued striving for excellence in extra-curricular activities; setting of realistic priorities by each school and college; an increased resolve on the part of administrators to administer efficiently, carefully and humanely; an intensification of the effort to tell the university story throughout the state.

Issue. . .

school attendance, rather than the three quarter system now used.

Jacobs said it would be virtually impossible to implement a four quarter system under Texas law.

However, Jacobs said it might be possible to go to an extended school day, containing nine periods rather than the current six, with students attending at different times.

He also suggested one solution for over-crowding might be the reopening of Umbarger School for classes for three or four years.

In other business Tuesday, the board heard a recommendation from the Vocational Advisory Board that a health occupations vocational education program be instituted at the high school next year.

Carroll Wilson, chairman of the board, passed to the school board the recommendation and said the proposal would not require a large expenditure of funds. He said about 30 students have indicated an interest in the program and about 25 employers have indicated jobs would be available.

Board members re-elected Keeling as president of the board with other officers also remaining. They are Wieck as vice president, Richard Pruett as secretary and Roscoe Richardson as associate secretary.

They reviewed proposed plans for the renovation of the old Neblett Hospital building. A first phase of the program would involve construction of a superintendent's office, tax office and business office, and board room.

No cost estimates were available on the construction.

Seminar Set For Officials From Cities

Newly-elected city commissioners and mayors in general law or home rule cities in the Panhandle and South Plains will have the opportunity to learn how their municipalities operate during a three-day orientation seminar at West Texas State University in early May.

Several speakers, including the executive director of the Texas Department of Community Affairs, will highlight the work session in Canyon on May 8, 9 and 10.

Dr. Walter Shelly, WTSU assistant professor of political science and program director, said the sessions are to acquaint new or recently-elected (or appointed) councilmen or mayors with the various facets of their job early in their term of office, therefore making them more efficient and effective city officials.

Format for the seminar will be lecture, panels, problem solving and small group discussion. West Texas State University faculty and other persons experienced in small city operations will staff the sessions.

"Our intention is to give them some basic information about the various functions of city government in order to cut down on the time which newly-elected commissioners would have to spend on the city commission before they would be aware of these things," he said.

Cloud. . .

shy of its needed revenue for the operation.

However, officers in the organization could not be reached for comment Tuesday. Castro County news reporters were unable to give a report on the financial status of the group.

John Carr, director of weather modification for the water development board, told The News Tuesday that the board had voted to approve the permit for Atmospherics, Inc. The permit allows cloud seeding through October in a target area consisting of Castro County, Lamb County and part of Hale County. The target area extends to the south Randall County line.

Carr said the board did not place restrictions on the permit similar to restrictions placed on a permit issued to the Plains Weather Improvement Association last month for operations in Hale, Swisher and Randall Counties. On that permit, the board would allow cloud-seeding planes to operate only within the target area and to a distance of 15 miles outside the target area.

Carr said the permit issued Tuesday will allow the Atmospherics, Inc., planes to seed clouds which they estimate will be effected by the time they reach the target area.

However, Carr said the board also directed that a weather-radar observer be hired by the board to man a special radar unit to track planes from the Dimmitt firm and to report on the effects of cloud seeding on the clouds in the area. Carr said the man will work for the board "as long as the money holds out."

Those opposing weather modification activities in Randall County still have one more shot at some control over the cloud seeders.

Legislation has been introduced in the Texas House of Representatives which would make a popular vote of the electorate in each county optional before weather modification activities could be carried out.

The election may be called when 10 per cent of the qualified voters in a county petition for such election.

Randall County commissioners went on record Monday supporting passage of the bill, which is still in committee.

Castro County commissioners have also gone on record for the law.

East Africa's Wildlife Refuge Areas Visited

By LORENA MILLER

Wildlife in East Africa and spectacular natural beauties of that area were recalled by Ples and Margaret Harper this week following their return from a recent three week sojurn there.

Traveling with the Harpers and their daughter, Martha, was a tour group including about 19 persons. Among the tour group was Mrs. Otis Parker, also of Canyon, accompanied by two of her sisters-in-law and the Harper's friend, Mrs. Porter representing the Gladys Porter Zoo in Brownsville and the zoo's keeper and other friends.

Departing from Houston, the travelers flew to Amsterdam and then to Nairobi following a brief stopover in Munich, Germany. Arriving in Nairobi, the capital of Kenya in East Africa, the group was at their tour site and spent three weeks covering approximately 1,500 miles and seeing eight natural reserves in the area.

The reserves of East Africa are occupied by numerous types of wildlife with two tribes of African natives (the Masai Tribe and the Samburu Tribe) living on reserve lands, according to the Harpers. The tour group was housed in government owned lodges during their stay in Africa.

"The lodges were all designed with elevated open air dining rooms — and wild animals were drinking in the ponds or rivers adjacent the dining rooms most evenings," related the Harpers.

"Sleeping quarters were bounded by fences, but one evening five lions spent the night on a rock nearby," recalled Mrs. Harper.

As for traveling on the reserves, the tour group was taken in land rovers (similar to a covered jeep with open tops) and the tourists were strongly warned to remain inside the land rovers at all times. They dismounted the rovers only in protected reserve areas.

"The animals did not pay any attention to the land rover, except to shuffle aside, and there were many giraffe, elephant, rhinoceros and cervines moving about across the flat terrain," remembered the Harpers.

An unusual strain of zebra was seen in Samburu which had very narrow symmetrical stripes, and this type of zebra migrated along with the gnu and the wildebeest (which has proven to be one of the wildest animals to tame).

Among the sights recalled by the Harpers was the sighting of about 12 hippo bathing in a river at one stop, and another river stop to view about 100 elephants with their babies.

"We saw the animals in their native habitat — and even had the chance to see one elephant challenge a larger elephant for his right to lead the group. The funny part of the elephant challenge was the sight of over 100 baboons calmly watching the scene," laughed Mrs. Harper.

At the lodge in Samburu country the monkeys were a little more venturesome than in other parts recalled the Harpers as they described one venturing monkey who "came in close enough to grab a man's dinner roll and the next morning at breakfast take a jar of marmalade from the table."

The tribesmen and women of East Africa both wore long native clothing and all had their ears pierced to accommodate large ornamental earrings made of bone, or decorated with beadwork. Most of the men and women had the piercing in the mid-ear lobe, related the Harpers, beginning with a small piercing and graduating to a larger bone style earring.

"The natives got quite a kick out of my clip earrings, which could be removed," laughed Mrs. Harper.

While in the area, the local entourage came across an 'Encounter Overland' tour group which consisted of Americans, Spaniards, Britons, French, Greeks and many other nationalities. The Encounter group was seeing East Africa a little less expensively by traveling in groups of about 30 persons housing themselves in tents and using sleeping bags.

"East Africa was a photographer's dream," stated the Harpers. "The skies were very lovely and the snow topped Mt. Kilimanjaro is a lovely sight."

From their travels in East Africa, the Harpers collected as souveniers a native water carrier which has an exterior of rough cloth with river shell decorations and which is lined with a dried cow dung interior.

Other souvenier items brought home by the Harpers were several styles of necklaces including one which features carved ostrich shell beading, amber beading, and a necklace made of metal which had been melted down from metal pots and made into beads.

Animal figurines carved in ebony are a featured item of the East African tradesmen along with the kitenga cloths often used for shirts and other open clothing of the tribesmen. The Harpers also brought home a hot mat made of banana leaves in a woven design and several other cow dung lined carrying bowls.

One of Mrs. Harper's favorite souveniers is a musical instrument (known as the marimba) which features a hollow music box, with bar notes which give one singular sound to the bar. Although she hasn't found anyone to tune the instrument yet, the strum of the marimba brings to mind native dances from Africa which were described by the Harpers as "jumping to rhythm."

After seeing the natural refuges in East Africa and a visit to see the Olduvai Gorge (found by Dr. Louis Leakey in 1959) the local tour group returned to the United States after spending an additional week soaking up European atmosphere in Lucerne, London, Paris and Amsterdam.

EAST AFRICAN MOMENTOES frame a collection of post cards collected by the Ples Harpers during a recent visit to wildlife refuges in that region.

JONNIE ROBERTSON REPORTED to me that her niece, Shellie Nolan, was an entry in the Little Miss Borger contest. Shellie wasn't the winner of the contest, but you can sure bet she is very much the winner in her families eyes' and did have a very enjoyable time participating in this event.

TALKED TO EUNICE Rinehart on Monday. She said she and Barney didn't get out over the weekend, but that daughter and family, Charollte and Tom McWilliams, Sr., came and spent a while Saturday afternoon. On Sunday their son, Bob, came out for a visit.

Eunice said she is going fishing before long and then she'll give me a real fishtail.

OH YES, I learned that Jonnie Robertson was in High Plains Baptist Hospital for a couple of days last week. She had some surgery, but is home now and doing fine.

Also I learned that Susie Singletary, Oleta Potter's mother, is in the hospital and has been for several days.

PECK RISNER AND his brother, Buck, took a short trip this weekend. They went to Marietta, Oklahoma where they saw Peck's son and family and also did a little fishing. Seems they were lucky and did catch some.

Oh yes, Darlene Risner, Peck and Faye's daughter-in-law is here staying with them until their son, Gregg, can get moved back here from Houston.

CALLED PEARL WEST to see what she and Dale did this weekend. Pearl said it was too bad to want to get out, so she just stayed home and baked a cake.

The cake seemed to get results, as their son and family, Larry, Donna, Zane and two and half month old Shawn came out Sunday for a visit and a piece of cake. Also Pat and Tex Reed were over for cake.

ALBERT, KATIE, DAVIA and Kathy Rinne went to Wilson, Texas this weekend. Albert's folks, Mr. and Mrs. A.A. Rinne live there. * * *

FLOYD, JONNIE, JOEL and Daryl Robertson were in Pampa this weekend. They have been house hunting there and was able to find a two story house to their liking.

Sharon said they had been making field trips lately and are making preparations for their participation in the Grand Council Fire coming up next month.

TIME TO SAY so long for this week, but will be back next week, so keep on reading.

Thought for this week, "It takes a lot of effort to hold a family together, also a lot of money, food, clothes, patience and love."

See ya.

Volleyball Tourney To Help Get Scoreboard

By MARY NEAL HENRY
HAPPY BOOSTER CLUB organized a volleyball tournament this week-end at the Happy gym to help finance a new scoreboard for the next year's Cowgirls and Cowboys' teams. This is a community project. Happy Volunteer Firemen have volunteered to be in charge of the clean-up. Jaycees will act as linemen. The Lions Club will be gate keepers.

The Sunnyhill Home Demonstration Club will host the concession on Thursday evening. The Happy CowBelles will take the concession stand for Friday evening and be serving every kind of beef sandwich. Saturday evening Happy Jaycees will be working the concession stand. Happy Community 4-H members plan to help out when needed in the concession stand.

Baked goods will be auctioned off Saturday night.

Any club or organization that wishes to make a donation to the scoreboard can do so by dropping by the First State Bank and leaving it with Judy Shipman or contacting LaNelle Todd, Booster Club treasurer. Any donor contributing as much as $100 will have their name listed beneath the scoreboard.

Support the basketball teams' new score board by attending the volleyball games this week-end.

VALERIE TIPPS, DAUGHTER of Betty and Floyd Tipps, was crowned Lion's Queen Friday evening in the Vivian Wesley Auditorium.

Valerie is a sixteen year old junior at Happy High. I am reminded of the time I took my year old German Shepherd to Happy to the Volunteer Firemen's clinic and arrived at the exact time that Vivian Wesley was leaving with that huge Persian Tom Cat. After that, they began directing traffic.

LISSA FOSTER AND Brenda Penn won first and Brenda Parker and Pam Tatum won second in the District Debate Contest in Plainview last week. Both teams will compete in the Regional Meet in Lubbock this Friday and Saturday. Congratulations, Happy High! Connie Richardson is their teacher and sponsor.

THE STUDENTS OF Barbara Tucek who provided the entertainment at Lions' Queen Contest Friday evening also won second in the dance contest sponsored by the Heritage Women's Study Club in Canyon on Saturday evening. LEONA McFARLAND WAS the hostess for Happy CowBelles Wednesday morning of last week. Linda McDonald and Barbara Danner were co-hostesses.

Reports were given on Food Day, American National Agriculture Day, the Mid-Year Meeting in Austin, Legislation now in progress, and the Regional I workshop which will be held in Amarillo on April 24th, at the Travel Lodge West on Paramount and I-40. These sessions are scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

Plans were made to participate in the buying of a new score board for the Happy gymnasium by working the concession on Friday evening. Joan Odom, chairman, has the evening carefully planned. Plans were also made to serve the Senior Citizens Thursday (today.)

CowBelle of the Year was elected. She is Mary Neal Henry (and may I say that I was most flattered). To be honored at home is an honor indeed.

Spudnuts and coffee were served to LaNelle Todd, Bernice Hamblen, Othella McGehee, Novalene Toles, Nell Sims, Mary Neal Henry, Ruth Sims, Nora Taylor, Vivian Wood, Doll Edmonds, Joy Bryan, Willa Elliott, Joyce Wheat, Judy Thompson, JoAnn Reynolds, Pat Hargrave, Willie Butler, Belinda Goode, Janice Davis, Leona McFarland, Barbara Danner, Linda McDonald, Myra Nell Culp and Joan Odom.

Nell Martin, owner and operator of Nell Martin Dry Goods in Happy, donated a green candle and candle ring to the Happy CowBelles to take to the State Mid-Year Meeting as their door prize. Flossie Woodward of Pearsall wrote the friends here to thank you for the beautiful gift and Flossie just happens to be the "Outstanding CowBelle of Texas" for 1974. She is a gracious lady and sends her thanks.

TODAY IS NATIONAL Food Day. The people sponsoring this day mean well, but they are misinformed.

Eating less food today will make the demand for food less and thus, actually signal the farmers of America to produce less food — not more. This will not make more food available to the starving people of the world as they wish. The same is true for beef.

Cattle are walking protein factories. They eat grass, corn stalks, corn not suitable for human consumption, and many other things that turn protein unsuitable for humans into a protein that can be utilized by the human body. Cattle do not eat wheat or rice. If there is anything else to eat, cattle will not eat grains of wheat (as a general rule.)

Field corn would not be grown by all those farmers who produce it if it were not purchased to be fed to cattle because there would be no market for it. Fifty years ago, 85 per cent of the corn grown was fed to cattle. (February Farm Journal)

During all the years of surplus grain in our country, these starving people existed. Where were these "concerned people" then? I am not saying "Do not be concerned!" I am saying that there must be a more justifiable solution. Eat an extra portion of food today or better still, take it to a senior citizen or shut in down the street or give it to a hungry child.

Gene Howe School Inspected For Safety Measures

By KAROLYN FARMER

ALL OF YOU concerned parents who during last week's storm and tornado watch said a silent prayer for the safety of our children can rest just a little easier now.

Mr. Lawless enlisted the services of Mr. Don Goforth, who is with the Defense and Disaster Relief in Amarillo, to visit our school. Mr. Goforth inspected the entire Gene Howe building in order to determine the safest areas for our children to be in case a tornado should strike.

Most of the danger, he pointed out, was from flying glass and bricks, and together he and Mr. Lawless decided on the places for each home room to go where they wouldn't be near the outside walls of the building.

Mr. Goforth also pointed out that another safety precaution is to determine the direction from which the rain is blowing — which would also be the direction the tornado would come from — then close the doors and windows on that side of the building and open them on the opposite side of the building to lessen the pressure.

Mr. Lawless plans to inform the teachers and children of Mr. Goforth's suggestions so that everyone at Gene Howe will be prepared in the event of such an emergency.

Be sure that you make definite plans for your own home so that each member of your family knows exactly what to do in case of a tornado. And also be sure to tell Mr. Lawless how much you appreciate his concern for our children.

Please remind your child to cooperate in every way during the school tornado drills — it could save his or her life, ane that's serious business.

THIS WEEK I visited Mr. Charles Dowell's 6th grade class on Friday afternoon. They were reviewing for a test to be given the next Monday — and was I glad I didn't have to take the test.

As they talked about the radio transmitter, the broadcasting antenna, receiving antenna and speaker, the similarities of static electricity and current electricity, etc., it was evident to me that my knowledge of such things was way below the 6th grade level.

Mr. Dowell used a drawing on the blackboard of a Greek TV set to review what they were studying. (Well, anyway it was Greek to me.)

The classroom, which is one of the two portable buildings at Gene Howe, is decorated in a typical "manly" style with a mod ski poster and a bulletin board that tells us "Spring Has Sprung".

Another bulletin board is loaded with pamphlets telling of the dangers of drug use.

The atmosphere in the room was informal with a lot of exchange between the teacher and the kids. They all really seemed to relate to Mr. Dowell and were surprisingly attentive for 6th graders on a Friday afternoon in spring.

CHARLES MORROW IS a new student both in Mr. Dowell's room and at Gene Howe. Charles is the son of James and Mary Lou Morrow and just moved here last week from Citrus Heights, California.

The Morrows have a big family of five boys. Two sons are married and live in California; and Mrs. Morrow said the hardest part of moving away was leaving their grandson. Their son Jerry is in the 8th grade at C.J.H.S. and Darrell is a junior at C.H.S.

Charles and his family live at Southgate Mobile Home Park, No. 109, and Mr. Morrow is an electrician with Bechtel Corporation.

Mrs. Morrow also said that even though the move so far from home has been a little difficult, the whole family is really impressed with the friendly people of Texas.

MORE NEW NEIGHBORS are Gary and Bobbie Muehlhausen and Christy, who now live at 8410 Olympia. The Muehlhausens are natives of Amarillo and Christy, who has been attending South Georgia School, is now in Mrs. Miller's 4th grade room.

Mr. Muehlhausen is production supervisor of Southwestern Portland Cement. They also have a married daughter and a son who will soon be graduating from Amarillo High School.

Christy plans to do a lot of swimming and tennis playing this summer, but may stay away from the neighbor's trampoline since she had a bad accident the first time she got on it.

THE GENE HOWE PTA presented a very special anniversary gift to the school, which I just plain forgot to mention last week. It's a lightweight stainless steel kiln and will be used by all Gene Howe students in various ceramics projects.

The kiln arrived this past week and a permanent location for it hasn't yet been decided. As soon as the teachers have a workshop on its operation, the kiln will be put to a lot of use.

So all you mothers reserve a special place for the lovely pottery your child will be bringing home.

IT SEEMS WE have several "world travelers" in our midst.

Ellen and Ken Wallace have just returned from an insurance convention in Jamaica attended by about 500 people from Canada, Hawaii and the rest of the U.S.

Ellen said they especially enjoyed meeting a lot of very nice people. They visited the Ocha Rio where they walked up the waterfall, went rafting on a bamboo raft down the Dunn River and shopped in the big marketplace.

The Wallaces brought back jewelry and French perfume for Becky and Kim and a banana leaf hat for Wayne which they watched being made.

The hardest part of the whole trip, according to Ellen, was the dramatic weather change from the warm tropical climate back to our cold Panhandle wind.

PAM LAYMAN, ONE of our 2nd grade teachers, also got "away from it all" over the Easter holidays. She and a girlfriend from Dallas took a seven day Caribbean Cruise with stopovers in Haiti, San Juan, Puerto Rico, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands and Nausau.

Pam liked Haiti best for several reasons. She was really intrigued by the contrast in their culture and standard of living, their primitive art forms and equipment and their schools as compared to our own.

Pam showed me one picture of a small grass hut where about twelve people lived, and the horse drawn cart loaded with straw that was the sign of the family's wealth.

In a few weeks Pam plans to have the class study about Haiti. They'll be able to see Haitian money and bowls bought at a mahogany factory she visited, along with the many pictures she took of the land and the people.

THE CANYON SCHOOL Board will meet at Gene Howe Monday, April 28th, and everyone in our community is invited to attend.

This will be a good opportunity for you to get acquainted with our school board members and gain a better understanding of how the decisions are made that directly affect all of us.

There will be time given to ask any questions we might have and to exchange our ideas with the board.

This is also an important opportunity for us to show our school board how much we care for Gene Howe and our children's welfare, so please make a special effort to come.

ON WEDNESDAY, APRIL 23rd, members of the Canyon High School Future Teachers will spend the day visiting in some of our classrooms. Debbie Wagner, Sharon Ramaekers, Leisa Ferguson and Debbie Nash will observe the classes of Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Ramaekers and Mrs. Parsons.

LUTHER LAWLESS AND Mrs. Jimmie Little attended the Spring Conference of the Texas State Teachers Association last Thursday. Mr. Lawless will serve as Treasurer of the association for the coming year.

Mrs. Little is divisional chairman for the Panhandle Regional Speech and Hearing Association and will be in charge of making plans for their part of the TSTA meeting to be held in Amarillo next November.

WE'RE VERY PROUD of our daughter, Brenda Henry, who has served as president of F.H.A. at Canyon Jr. High this year. Brenda received the Outstanding Member Award at their banquet this past week and she has also been elected vice president of the C.H.S. Chapter of F.H.A. for next year.

(Of course, everyone knows where she gets all her homemaking ability, but that's one obstacle she'll just have to overcome on her own.)

ALL 6th GRADE girls who are interested in trying out for cheerleader meet with Mrs. Hogg from C.J.H.S. Thursday morning.

We're really proud of Shonda Palmer and April Howard, former Gene Howe girls, who have done such a great job as 7th grade cheerleaders this year.

MR. DAVE CORLEY, C.J.H.S. principal, will meet with all 6th graders on Friday, April 19th to assist them in making out their schedules for next year.

DON'T FORGET TO attend the Arts Unlimited Eighth Annual Arts & Crafts Show this Saturday, April 19th at the Federation Clubrooms, 2001 Civic Circle.

BILL GRUHLKEY, THE son of Roger and Janice Gruhlkey, had an extremely close call last Saturday while kite flying. During the same time that his mother was involved in an automobile accident in downtown Amarillo, Bill and a couple of friends were in the process of rescuing his brother Jim's kite that had caught on a high line.

Bill climbed a steel ladder, used an aluminum pole in an effort to untangle the kite, and was almost electrocuted by the 440 volt line. He suffered burns to his hand and may have to have skin grafting on one of his toes, but the doctor felt there had been no more damage.

Janice said they were just so grateful that it wasn't more serious and hopes that other parents and children will be more aware of the dangers of kite flying around electric lines.

OUR FAMILY AND a lot of other people really had a great time at the "Kid Power" talent show last Saturday night.

We were so proud of all our Gene Howe "Kids" and are tremendously grateful to Margie Phillips who gave so much of her time to help our boys and girls perform so well.

Greg Coronado won first place in Division I (Grades 1-3) with a "bang-up" job on the drums.

The 5th grade Tinikling group won second place in Division II (Grades 4-6). Those who participated were Jeanne McDonald, Renee Judkins, Melinda Yarbrough, Alan Cranfill, Glenn Storlie, Devon Marshall, Carl Henry, Steve Stokes, Michelle Walker, Kim Howard, Susan McNett and Steve Spurlin.

Vocalist Kim Storlie placed third in Division III (Grades 7-9).

The other talented performers from Gene Howe were Stacy Howard, Willie Lee, Gaylene Bryon, Jeina Bryon, Allison Kitten, Richard Lee, Melissa Gresham, Wendy Gresham, Melissa Davis, Melinda Davis, Kelli Campbell, Darla Campbell, Mary Mac Howard, Amy Ford, Carol Rogers, Leslie Martindale, Dwayne Hollis, Michael Longhofer, Jim Gruhlkey, John Hicks, Jay Edwards and Delbert Hollis.

Jamye Melton was scheduled to appear but came down with scarlet fever.

Kim Tillinghast, daughter of 2nd grade teacher Portia Tillinghast, also performed in the show.

Our own Mrs. Marion Marrs is President of Heritage Woman's Club which sponsored the talent show.

LAST FRIDAY GENE Howe students participated in a drive by the Canyon Schools to raise money for Kathy Wallace. Kathy is the young Amarillo girl who has a terminal kidney illness and many people in our area are helping finance a trip for her to Disneyworld.

Gene Howe contributed almost $50 out of the total $189 that was donated by the Canyon schools.

As Mr. Lawless handed the money to Dave Corley, he couldn't resist pointing out how "our kids" always come through in a great way.

All of us really do have a lot to be proud of — and an awful lot to be thankful for too.

"Texas Outlook" Accepts Article Of Local Teacher

"Texas Outlook", a publication of the Texas State Teachers Association, recently notified Mrs. Jerry Jacobs of Canyon that her article about special education programs in the Texas public schools has been accepted for publication.

Mrs. Jacobs has taught for the past two years at Margaret Wills Elementary School in Amarillo where her classroom includes ten students of minimally brain-injured children.

She is the wife of Jerry Jacobs, superintendent of Canyon Independent School District, and prior to her current position had taught and tested in special education areas for over 16 years.

In describing her manuscript for "Texas Outlook", Mrs. Jacobs stressed that the special education program works hand-in-hand with the regular classroom situation when brain injured children are replaced with other students. The responsibility for the student's continued success is then returned to the hands of the regular classroom teacher.

Her article is written in the form of a "thank you" letter from the special education teacher to the regular classroom teacher for the student's continued success in education.

A Dumas player tried to stretch a single into a double Monday afternoon but two throws and a tag sent the hitter back to the bench. The play began with left fielder Jimmy Ward's throw to shortstop Ricky Cooper and his throw to second baseman Jay Hughey who made the tag. The Eagles opened district play with a sweep of Monday's doubleheader by scores of 4-2 and 6-1. The team takes on Levelland, another district foe, here Friday at 3 and 5 p.m.

Wooden Outlines Road To Success

A basketball Hall of Famer, both as a player and a coach, spoke to approximately 350 persons Tuesday evening at the Activities Center on the WTSU campus.

John Wooden, former head basketball coach at UCLA, led his Bruins to ten national championships before announcing his resignation a few weeks ago.

Over the past 25 years at UCLA, Wooden's teams won 620 games and lost 147. A record 88 consecutive wins is yet unsurpassed.

Wooden spoke on his "Pyramid of Success," a concept he has been working on for the past 35 years.

According to Wooden, success is "peace of mind which can only be attained through self-satisfaction."

As a guide to success, Wooden uses a pyramid as a model with success at the apex.

"First of all, you must have strong cornerstones at the base," he said. "My cornerstones are industriousness and enthusiasm. Enjoy what you're doing whatever it might be," Wooden added. Between the cornerstones is cooperation, loyalty and friendship.

"The second tier of the pyramid consists of self-control, initiative and intentness. Decisions must be made by reason, you must act on your own and you must have a realistic goal," Wooden said.

The third row of the pyramid of success includes condition, skills and team spirit.

To be a success, "you must be in condition and maintain that conditioning." Along with the conditioning, skills are also needed Wooden says. He also emphasizes team work. "Team work is an eagerness to lose oneself in the group for the good of the group. You have to give to receive," the coach said.

Just under the apex of his pyramid and ultimate success, is two blocks labeled poise and confidence. "Poise is just being yourself and confidence comes from your conditioning, skills and team spirit," Wooden said.

To tie the pyramid together, Wooden uses words such as faith, patience, determination, fight, dependability and reliability.

"Be the best you can be," Wooden said in closing.

After the talk, a question and answer session was held followed by a reception in the East Dining Hall.

TEXAS TALK

By Tom Lytle

Agriculture is still No. 1. Although only about 4.5% of the population works on farms, another 25% of working Americans are employed in directly related industries. Food transportation, marketing, financing, manufacturing, chemical development and textiling are a few of the businesses which push the agricultural industry to the nation's number one position, accounting for nearly 25% of the Gross National Product.

As bad as things are economically, Americans still spend only about 16 percent of their income after taxes for food. In a majority of the world's countries the amount of income paid for food exceeds 45%. In 25 years the percentage of disposable income spent for food in the United States has decreased more than 28%. As dramatic as this decrease, is the increase in selection and quality of foods available to the American consumer, evidenced by the more than 11-thousand food selections at many supermarkets.

Visiting, Birthday Parties

By DORIS McKEE

HELLO TO ALL you folks this week. Hope everything is looking good for you.

SEEMS JAY HUNEYCUTT celebrated his 11th birthday this past weekend. He had a couple of friends come home with him on Friday, they were Teddy Clemets and Jeff Brown.

On Saturday Jewel and Jim took the boys and their other son, James Don, to Pancho's for lunch, cake and ice cream. The boys then attended a movie. Jay got a stereo-recorder, AM-FM radio, records and a croquet set.

JEWEL AND JIM Huneycutt were in Tulia Tuesday working with World Book and Child Craft. Also Jewel learned a few days ago that she was a winner in a World Book contest, of an all expense trip for two, for three days and three nights.

She has a list of several places to choose from. At present she is undecided. She is also working for a cash bonus. If she can get five more credits, she will get the bonus.

Jewel said that she will be very busy Friday from 7:00 to 10:00 and again Saturday from 7:00 to 4:00. She will be at the Holiday Inn West working in training classes for World Book and Child Craft.

JAY AND JAMES Don Huneycutt were both in Canyon Saturday morning for baseball try outs. Jay has learned that he will be playing on the majors teams this year. James Don will play minor league.

* * *

SEEMS CONNIE MORGAN turned sixteen on April 15th. Now she can drive. A Happy Birthday to you Connie. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Morgan.

L.C. AND VERA Robinson and kids went into Amarillo over the weekend to watch a good friend Vera McCurry in a bowling tournament. L.C., Vera and kids thought it looked like so much fun they all decided to bowl themselves. It was a first, that was really enjoyed by all, and I'll bet it won't be the last.

* * *

I LEARNED THAT Mrs. Tressie Lesly's brother, Howard Jenning, who was in Northwest Texas Hospital for about a week, was able to come to the Lesly's home last week.

BILL AND HELEN Butler who own and operate the Conoco station are recent grandparents.

Bill and Jerilyn Brooks of Pampa are the proud parents of a baby boy, whom they named Micha Reed Brooks.

Also Bill and Helen's daughter Sandra, was home over the weekend. She attends Texas Tech in Lubbock, where she is studying to become an Attorney.

TALKED TO OLETA Jones Tuesday morning. She and her husband, Sherman, had been rather busy the last nine days. Their thirteen year old son, LeeDon had been in St. Anthony Hospital with pneumonia. He did get to come home Monday night and is doing okay.

I'M NOT SURE just how many mistakes I have made on names, but I do apologize for any and all. I am trying to make corrections and hopefully will get each one straight soon.

Must sign off for this week, but will be right here with more news next time.

Give me a call.

Museum Auxiliary Has Annual Meet

Annual meeting of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum Auxiliary was held Tuesday afternoon, April 15, at the museum with members being welcomed by Dr. James Hanson, museum director, who commended the group for the past year's work and pledged his support for the projects planned by the Auxiliary during the coming year.

Officers elected by the Auxiliary to serve for the coming year were Mrs. Gene W. Morrison, president; Mrs. Nolon Henson, first vice president; Mrs. Charles Smallwood, second vice president; Mrs. Lois Hull, secretary; and Mrs. Harold Erwin, treasurer. Following the election, Mrs. Morrison appointed Mrs. Robert Brotherton to serve as historian and Mrs. Duane Guy to handle publicity coverage.

A report of last year's work was given which included the work conducted in the Souvenir Shop, Guided Tours of the Museum and Museum Library, Display Arranging and the group's hostess duties for a tea honoring Prince Tachabana of Japan while here on a special exhibition of his screens during the year.

Mrs. Claire Kuehn, museum representative to the Auxiliary, gave an outline of projects needed during the coming year and suggested that the Auxiliary hostess a tea for the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum's Board at their May meeting. She also suggested Auxiliary members help with the museum's art files, caring for the Oriental Room and Pioneer Village and conducting guided tours as well as continuing work in the library and Souvenir Shop at the museum.

Other special projects will be planned and discussed at further meetings of the group. The Auxiliary session was concluded with a tour of the Oriental Room.

The Auxiliary membership is open to both men and women and anyone interested in the group and its services may contact Mrs. Nolon Henson, membership chairman, at 655-4613 or Mrs. Claire Kuehn at the museum.

FFA Contests Held At WT

Area judging contests for Area I FFA boys and girls was held at West Texas State University, last weekend.

There were 28 schools represented with teams in the land judging and 7 schools represented with teams in the pasture and range. Each team consisted of four members.

The high point individual in the land judging was Spencer Carrell from Perryton High School. The high point individual in the pasture and range evaluation contest was Terry Lee from Spur High School. Each of these boys was presented a trophy from the Palo Duro Soil and Water Conservation District by Bob Gruner, District Director.

The winning teams were Roosevelt in land judging and Dalhart in Pasture and Range Evaluation.

The land judging consisted of the team members individually determining land class factors about the soil such as surface texture, permeability, depth of soil, slope, erosion, wind and water, surface runoff and land capability class. Based on the land use, they select land treatment practices in the general category of vegetative, mechanical, and fertilizer recommendations. This is done at four different sites.

The pasture and range evaluation contest is divided into four parts, on evaluation of pasture, identification of 15 plants, and determining range site condition class and selecting treatment practices on two native grass sites.
